

Sunday Morning Parents Group Historical Understandings of Parenting

Led by Dr. Kris McCusker
October 23 - November 20

What does it mean to be a "good parent?" In this class we will examine different understandings of parenting over the past two-hundred years. By examining these different perspectives we will reflect on our own beliefs about parenting. How much of these beliefs are informed by culture and nostalgia, how much are they informed by the Gospel?

The rituals of contemporary culture paint a picture of the family as the incubator of good citizens, dutiful producers, and eager consumers at the same time that it shuts up the family in a private, closed home as part of the American ideal of independence. The result is an unbearable weight placed on the family. The predominant theology of the family isolates it with the formidable and lonely task of being a whole communion. But the promises in baptism indicate a very different theology of the family, which recognizes that families work well when we do not expect them to give us all we need. - James K.A. Smith, You Are What You Love.

Catechesis of the Good Shepherd

Sundays at 9:45 am

What is the "religious life" of the child?

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd gives primary focus to the relationship with God through Jesus and offers a sacred place where the child can be initiated into the religious life. Through the proclamations of the Word, this relationship is affirmed for the child and assists in helping the child to draw nearer to God. To speak about the religious life of the child is to speak about how the child dwells with the mystery of God.

How does Catechesis of the Good Shepherd and the Atrium assist the religious life of the child?

The Atrium allows the child the space to draw closer to God. It is a place where the child can listen to the proclamations of the Good News, meditate on the Word of God, participate more fully in the liturgy, and begin to live it according to the child's own rhythm. It is a place for the announcement of the Word of God, a place for celebration and also a place for work. It is an environment in which work becomes meditation and prayer. The child's expression of the religious life is manifested through prayer responses whether silent or aloud, in contemplation, in song, in their work, and through artwork.
